A race is a grouping of humans based on shared physical or social qualities into categories generally viewed as distinct by society. First used to refer to speakers of a common language and then to denote national affiliations, by the 17th century the term race began to refer to physical (phenotypical) traits. Modern scholarship regards race as a social construct, that is, a symbolic identity ...

The central preservation tenet of the Victorian Electronic Records Strategy (VERS) is that content be transformed to a long term preservation format. The standard long term preservation formats used by VERS are PDF, TIFF, and ASCII text. (Although it should be noted that VERS recommends preserving the original bit stream as well.)

TiO₂ nanotubes or titanate nanotubes (TNTs), which are produced by hydrothermal synthesis, have received increasing attention for photocatalytic applications due to their unique physicochemical properties, such as nanotubular structure with layered walls, high surface area, ion-exchange ability, and photocatalytic activity. The hydrothermal method that has been widely applied for preparation ...
